A Mussolini Plan
Costes and Lebriz
The Missing Link
Richest Country

By Arthur Brisbane

MUSSOLINI SAYS Fascism will be permanent, he plans it so. There will be a place in Italy for each person and each person will occupy it. That, fortunately, is not so. In such a country, no Mussolini would be possible.

He did not stay in his place, or in the prison, to which he was sent. He began as a Socialist and became a power as dictator, as the world has seen.

Cromwell did not stay in his place, so Charles the First lost his. Danton did not stay in his place, Mirabeau abandoned his place, Robespierre gave up the law, and Louis Sixteenth went via the guillotine. All of them refused to "stay in his place," and for that reason, there is progress.

Don't forget the Flying Frenchmen, Costes and Lebriz, back to Paris, from Tokyo flying 10,370 miles in six days, with seven stops, sleeping not more than four hours on any night, sometimes not sleeping at all.

Those are real fliers, and when they start westward across the Atlantic, as they will, Lloyd's will not bet against their success.

Civilization will begin when men engage only in friendly loyal competition, as these fliers do, instead of killing each other in war, and cheating each other in business.

Roy Chapman Andrews and exploring party go from the New York Museum of Natural History to search the Missing Link in Mongolia. Man's career on this earth is supposed to have begun in Mongolia. It is supposed, as Haeckel suggests, that it began in several places, at about the same time, various races coming up through evolution, from ancestors quite different. One theory says, "The African race from orang-outangs, the Caucasian race from chimpanzees," the last animal being the most intelligent and in some ways most unpleasant of the three.

However and wherever we started, it will be hard to find that missing link, between animal and man, and hard to identify him, if found. You cannot identify the link between babyhood and childhood, or between childhood and manhood. It is all so gradual. We slip from infancy to dotage as we climbed from protozoan to our present form, with changes imperceptible.

In New Zealand, everything possible is done for the average man. Workers are protected, public contracts provide for employing other men, on a friendly basis. Railroads owned by the people transport laborers, seeking work, free of charge. If they find the work, they pay their fare.

It is no place for a man to get very rich, too many laws protect the average man. It is no country for a selfish American that wants to "get rich, no matter what happens to others."

On the other hand, New Zealand, short in hundred time all climates, is the richest country in the world, per capita. New Zealand's AVERAGE wealth is $237,170. Little Switzerland comes second, with $239,928. The United States comes third, with $241,830, and Russia is last.

Fliers Bare First Details of Daring Hop Over Ocean

Charles City, Que., April 16 (By the Canadian Press)—A brief description of the flight of the Junkers plane, Bremen, which made the east-to-west transatlantic flight, was furnished the Canadian Press today by messages from Miss Sibson, the largest land wire station to Greenly Island.

Held back by fog and changing temperatures, the German fliers had almost given up hope and the plane was almost out of fuel when land was sighted which the fliers believed was Newfoundland.

The aviators sensed victory with the appearance of land at about 2 p. m. Friday afternoon. They descended a small lake on an island and decided to land. The plane, however, was not equipped for landing on the ice.

A careful landing was made, but in an airplane due there at 3 p. m. today. This would connect with a train today for Quebec or Montreal. The plane is piloted by C. A. "Duke" Schiller.

Ottawa, Ont., April 16 (By the Canadian Press)—The department of marine and fisheries received the following message today from its Quebec office:

Schiller left Greenly Island at 10 a. m., with Fitzmaurice. Destination, Father Point or Murky Bay. Others remaining by Bremen.

The message came by wireless from Charles City, Que.

The plane crashed through the top of the lake and the tail of the machine was damaged.

Prior to sighting land the aviators had encountered no difficulty after another. Atmospheric conditions had been unfavorable and the plane was forced to maintain a low altitude. A thick fog came up and the plane entered "darkness."

No one of the three occupants of the plane was hurt in the landing. They found the island almost uninhabited, but they were treated with the utmost hospitality and their disposal and help offered in their attempts to repair the plane.

The messages indicate that at the start of the flight from Hudson, Ireland, weather conditions were favorable. After nearly 20 hours of flight, after nearly 20 hours of of Priv. William Pratt, who was armed with a rifle. The prisoners were clad in working clothes. Berry and Bancroft went back of the station and started to run, according to officers. Pratt then gave chase and fired upon them.

The shooting brought the corporal of the guard and soon three auto loads of armed guards rushed through the streets of Winthrop in the man hunt, but were eluded by the deserters.

Meantime Winthrop police had been notified. Officers James Turner and John Haig, in a police machine, hurried to the fort, learned the details of the escape and drove to the engine station, where a train had just left. They then drove to Thornton, boarded the train and Berry and Bancroft surrendered. At the Winthrop police station they were turned over to det. O'Brien for court martial at the fort.

N. Y. AMERICAN PLANE READY FOR DETROIT HOP
Toledo, O., April 16 (IN)—After landing here yesterday afternoon, completing its triumphant American tour, the New York American plane, Toledo Leadership, today was preparing to take off for Detroit.

The plane carried five passengers, including Commander Dick Wall and Pilot George Hinkins. Mayor Jackson officially greeted the fliers yesterday and Wall presented him with the City of Toledo flag. Wall said the tour had conclusively proved the practicability of radio communication between aircraft and ground stations.

Hundreds of Pigeons Killed in Back Bay Station Fire

Of thousands of pigeons which built their nests in the eaves of the Back Bay railroad station hundreds were killed by smoke or flame.

Those housed above the facade remained longest in their nests. Occasional dashes of water from fire hose washed many out; others fluttered away through the thick smoke that came as the fire progressed toward the west end of the structure.

The dead birds were later shoveled away with the street debris.

ORDER INQUEST INTO STATION BLAZE

An inquest to determine the cause of the fire which destroyed the Back Bay station of the New Haven Railroad will be conducted at the State House Wednesday by Inspector George Mansfield of the State fire marshal's staff.

A preliminary report on the cause was made today by Fire Marshal George C. Neal by Inspector James A. Draper, but this will be withheld until the inquiry. A score or more witnesses will be ordered to appear Wednesday.

The condition of three of the 15 firemen who were injured by falling walls and other accidents while battling the flames was still critical today. Lieut. Frank Kehoe of Engine 21 and Daniel P. Shaghtown of Engine 35 have dangerous head and back injuries. They are at City Hospital.

Two safes, one containing $15,000 and the other several hundred dollars, and the money removed to a place of safety. Police details were busy all day keeping the crowds moving, and it was estimated that more than 5,000 persons thronged to see the wreckage.

A meringue wall 200 feet long adjoining the Boston & Albany tracks threatened to fall momentarily as workmen razed the ruins and trains moved at a slow pace so as not to jar it. The B. & A. inbound train was closed because of this danger.

No trains are being operated through the station. Trains from the South station are being routed through Dorchester. Dedham, Needham and Woonsocket branch lines are closed.

Condemned by city authorities, the ruins of the structure are being razed. Because of the fireproof type of construction of the station, which was built in 1891, it was insured for only $250,000, although its value was $1,000,000. The loss, including the portion covered by insurance, is estimated at $900,000 by insurance adjusters.

rected, "say 'I saw,' that's the end."

Statler, after successive trips in the hotel business, got his first capital from operating billiard rooms. There were anxious days after he opened his first restaurant in Buffalo, but he weathered the storm and paid his creditors in full.

Statler, with two temporary capitation hotels caused him to embark on the permanent hotel business. "Statler service" was his business slogan, and it meant, among other things, the then unique plan of a bath with every room. He provided each class of his employees with a "code" which embodied his personal ideas and thus provided an elaborate system of social service for their advancement and comfort.

Mr. Statler felt that he had made another great advance in the hotel business recently when every room in every Statler hotel was equipped with radio sets which through a central control station provided the choice of two programs. Mr. Statler often expressed his pride in this scheme and he believed the radio went far to do away with the loneliness felt by a hotel guest.

The Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, with 2200 rooms, was the largest of the hotels he operated. Mr. Statler married on April 16, 1896, a New York native, Miss A. B. O. who died in October, 1925. A son of their marriage became engaged with the hotel organization.

His second wife was Miss Alice Statler, who had been his secretary for 11 years.

In July, 1926, France conferred upon Mr. Statler the cross of the Legion of Honor, in reward of his great service to mankind.

Mr. Statler was a former president of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association of the United States and Canada. He was a third degree Mason and a Knight Templar. His home in recent years was at Great Neck, N. Y.

At his bedside when he died were his wife and his son, Milton H. Statler. He is also survived by a daughter, Effie, and another son who bore his name.

Private funeral services will be held on Wednesday at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Burial will be in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Mr. Statler had returned from the South about three weeks ago. He became ill with pneumonia and complications followed, which caused his death.

Statler Rose Rapidly to Prominence in New England
"Mr. Statler's death, to me this morning, was a great shock," said Bradbury Channing, manager of the Boston Statler hotel. "We here in Boston knew of his illness, but did not think it was of a serious nature. I have known Mr. Statler for the past two years and in knowing him I have a far-reaching idea, but very few, of his personality. His passing is not only a great loss to the city of Boston, but it is a deep loss to me personally."

E. M. Statler became prominent in New England affairs with his decision to construct a hotel in Boston which focused the attention of persons in the hotel business.

Soon after construction he was a speaker at several luncheons of Boston business organizations, expressing his leaving with an impression of sincerity of purpose. On March 1st, last year, the day before the Boston Statler hotel opened its doors, he was the hotel to one of the largest and most representative groups of club representatives ever gathered under one roof. He was present at the official opening of the hotel and during the 15 months the hotel has been in operation, he has made numerous times to maintain the personal touch which was such a factor in the success of his great chain of hotels.

Out of respect for Mr. Statler, the management of Hub hotel today closed its doors on their business at half staff.

WOMAN SAVES 20 FAMILIES IN BACK BAY FIRE

A woman was the heroine today of a fire which threatened the four-story brick apartment block at 121 Mountfort st., Back Bay, driving 20 families, including many women and children, to the street.

As smoke poured into her first-floor apartment from the basement, where the fire had started, Mrs. Alice Pelton ran from door to door, rapping with the heel of a shoe and arousing enough of the occupants to spread the alarm through the entire building.

Before leaving the smoke-filled structure, she went to her apartment and carried out a pet dog and cat.

While attempting to carry out her 13-month-old baby, Mrs. Fred MacLennan was partially overcome by smoke. She fell in a corridor and was picked up by firemen who revived her.

Damage by flames was chiefly in the basement, where there is a store. Smoke poured up the ventilation shaft and into all parts of the building. The cause was undetermined.

WEBSTER ON GRILL IN READING INQUIRY

Asked the total of the amounts he received from Decimo and affidavits and organizations during 1927, Webster replied:

"I received $450 from Decimo, $15,000 from Apoco and $30,000 from Mr. Monjar. I think a part of it I received during the latter part of 1927."

Under relentless questioning by the committee, Webster became visibly agitated. It was the third day he has been on the stand. Referring to the story of Monjar's gifts to him, he exclaimed:

"I tried to buy my soul for a mess of pottage." The reference was to Monjar. "But it didn't go big," Webster said.

"Did you return the money to him?" he was asked. "No, you return gift?" he questioned in reply. "I tried to answer the question, he said that he had not returned the money to Monjar."

HIS EXPENSES PAID.

Under fire he admitted that his brother, who was present at one conference when Reading attended, was also in Boston.

Q—Who paid your expenses from San Francisco to New York and from New York to Boston? A—The Decimo Club.

Q—Who is paying your expenses

here in Boston? A—The Decimo Club.

Q—Are you being paid a stipendium for a day? A—Yes, sir.

Q—How much? A—$25 per day.

Q—Why didn't you tell this committee that last week? A—Because you were to ask questions and I was to answer them.

Webster was asked if he hadn't introduced Reading as Barrett to a man named Raymond.

A—I don't recall that I did.

Q—Will you say that didn't? A—I don't recall that I did.

WHERE WEBSTER SLIPPED.

The witness testified that not putting Reading's name on the check for $25,000 made out to Barrett, had been a "gross error."

Webster, taking the stand, was to be followed by Monjar.

The hearing room was crowded when the man who paid Reading the $25,000 returned through a third person began his third day as a witness in the episode of the third week of the investigation.

Q—Didn't you expect to profit by Reading's official position? A—No.

Q—Do you want to let that answer stand? A—Yes.

Q—You also want to let it stand that Reading's superior intellect was the only reason for his being retained as counsel? A—Those are the facts.

Q—You knew he had considerable influence? A—I didn't know how much.

Q—You weren't interested? A—No.

Q—When you came to Boston on May 27 or 28 didn't you consider it strange that Reading had not uncovered more facts? A—No.

SITUATION WAS ACUTE.

Reading resumed the organization, Webster testified. He said the situation was becoming acute all over the country with simultaneous investigations in several states.

Q—Coming to his contention that Decimo had no way to use Reading's influence in office, Webster pointed out that the club might have advertised the fact that a secretary of the State of Colorado and the judge who tried Alvin Karpis McPherson in California were Decimo members.

Q—Because of what he said there you thought he was superior to other lawyers you had met? He answered that the impression was placed at a later conversation in THAT BARRETT CHECK.

Q—Would you have been capitalizing in any way on Reading's name and position if you had delivered the check to Reading directly which had been made out to Barrett? A—No, sir.

Q—Why didn't you deliver that check directly to Reading? A—Because it was made out to Barrett.

Q—If the check was intended for Reading and he asked why it was not made payable to his name why did you not make it in the alternate? A—Because there was no reason in it.

Q—From whom were you consulting the fact that the money was intended for Reading? A—From those in the office. From the office help.

Q—At what stage was the check cashed? A—I don't recall.

CASHING THE CHECK.

Q—Call your attention to the testimony of Herbert L. Barrett, who testified that he believed it was at your suggestion that the check was cashed. Does that refresh your recollection? A—Yes.

Q—And that was where you were reading and he wanted some ready cash and I told him if he did that the check would have to be cashed, as it was near the close of banking hours and another check could not be drawn.

Q—When did you receive a request from Reading? A—Immediately after turning over the check.

Q—Did you dictate the receipt? A—No.

Q—But the receipt contained information as to why the money was being paid, did it not? A—Yes.

Q—Was that the purpose of that? A—So that there would be no misunderstanding.

WEBSTER GOT NO MONEY.

Q—It was pretty generally understood by the board of governors, was it not? A—Yes.

Q—Did you get any part of that money? A—No.

Q—Has Reading paid you any money at any time? A—No.

Q—I think you said you were going to battle for Decimo? A—Yes.

Q—With whom? A—I've read only a part of it.

Q—What was there that you had to battle? A—Nothing, but that was what I was told by Mr. Barrett.

Q—And that was told you by whom? A—By everyone wherever we were investigated. I think it was first told in California.

Q—You say you have been told in every state where you were investigated that Decimo was too successful? A—Yes.

READING MADE IT FORCIBLE.

Q—But you didn't believe it until Reading told you? A—I wouldn't say that, but he brought it home more forcibly.

Q—Did you shift that $200,000 from the Chase National Bank of New York to the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston? A—No, sir, higher interest.

Q—Did you get three per cent a year money in New York? A—We didn't in the Chase National.

Q—Was the employment of Reading for a year by the board of governors? A—It was continued by the board.

Q—Did you say that a syndicate was to put Decimo on a fraternal basis? A—It was told that by Monjar.

Webster then testified that the Apoco Sales Corporation, which was affiliated with Decimo, claimed through its officers that it could buy anything, including airplanes, at a discount. He said he had bought the suit of clothes he was wearing from the Drew Tailoring Company.

WHY HE RESIGNED.

Q—You didn't get stuck on that suit, did you? A—Well, I've had it two years and I'm satisfied.

He further testified that he had purchased coffee, shoes, shirts and suits from Apoco by going to its office in New York and getting receipts for the different items.

Q—I think you said you resigned from Decimo for a twofold purpose. Because of ill health and because of Monjar? A—Yes.

Q—You were always friendly with Monjar? A—Yes.

Q—Are you now? A—(Shouted) I am not.

Q—When did you cease to be? A—December 12.

Q—I think you said Monjar was asked to resign from Decimo? A—He was given an opportunity to resign, but I was told he was carried on the payroll afterward.

FAILED OF RE-ELECTION.

Q—Then it is fair to say he failed of re-election? A—Yes.

Q—And if you hadn't resigned I suppose you would have failed of re-election, too, wouldn't you? A—I don't know.

Charles James showed Webster the letter which accompanied the checks sent to Barrett, who gave Reading a check for total of two of them. This letter was signed "J. D. Webster." The witness denied signing it. "That is not my signature. It was not dictated by me. On that date, Sept. 28, I was in bed and he said:

Q—Who did sign it? A—I suppose it was John D. Deitz, assistant treasurer.

Q—Did he have authority to sign it? A—He had no authority to sign as vice-president.

MYSTERIOUS SYNDICATE.

Webster said Monjar had always told him a syndicate was behind the Decimo Club and would begin operations when the membership had developed. Webster said he became convinced there was no syndicate.

Q—When were you first informed by Mr. Monjar that Decimo would be put on a fraternal basis? A—Before I joined.

Q—Did you ever ask why the syndicate wasn't put in motion? A—Certainly I did.

Q—Did you ever call it to Reading's attention? A—I don't recall that I did.

Q—By Rep. Rockwell—who dictated the receipt I suppose it was typewritten and dictated by Reading.

HAD "NOTHING TO HIDE."

"He had nothing to hide," the witness continued. "He merely wanted to make sure that we didn't use his name as attorney-general of Massachusetts."

Q—(By Rep. Davidson) Do you understand the nature of these proceedings? A—Yes.

Q—What are they? A—To investigate the acts of the attorney-general. Webster testified he understood his salary with the club in 1926 was to be about $10,000 and he received $10,000. Other questions developed the information that the Apoco corporation in 1926 paid him $4000 and in 1927 $14,000.

Speaking of Reading's first visit to Decimo in New York, Webster then used the word "investigation" and qualified it by saying, "If you call it an investigation."

Q—What do you call it? A—It is not an investigation. I was seeking information about Decimo.

"IMMEDIATE" COUNSEL.

The questioning then shifted to Webster's knowledge of "imminent" counsel.

Q—Ever hear of Judge Hughes? A—No.

Q—John W. Davis? A—No.

Q—George W. Wickersham? A—No.

Q—Elmer Root? A—No.

Q—But you had heard of the attorney-general of Massachusetts? A—Not till he called at our office.

Q—When you made your proposition to Reading after he had asked you whether you were trying to win his official position, he didn't offer

NEW RIDING CLUB SHOW TO BE BEST EVER OFFERED, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Reginald Bird Directs Events
Held Friday and Saturday
Evenings

CHAMPING STEEDS GROOMED TO A shining sheen, riders molded into perfectly correct "models" and crowned with "top hats", judges all immaculately perfect in evening broadcloth and linen and society applauding from the gallery, and society in the saddle. It's very true that Boston society boasts no Madison Square Garden and National Horse Show, but it does have, and is very thankful therefore, the New Riding Club's evening show, that have all the foregoing ingredients, plus quantities of enthusiasm and a glitzy not far removed from the "Horse Show" brilliance as Gotham has known it this many a year.

ALL THE OLD FAVORITES, AND SOME NEW and untired blue ribbon aspirants, will answer the bugle next Friday and Saturday at the Riding Club. Entries from "amateurs" have literally descended in showers, until Mr. Reginald Bird, showman-in-chief for the two evenings, announces that the Riding Club has ever exceeded. Two Canadians who know what's what in equine blue blood and are well versed in points of horse and rider, will be on the judges' platform. They are Sir Grenville and Lieut-Col. Moss.

THE NEW RIDING CLUBS INVITATION Shows, filling the two evenings of next Friday and Saturday, round out with dash and flourish the Indoor Horse Show season, staged beneath electric lights. The shows brilliantly enclose the winter season before the same exhibitors move into the open, for the Chestnut Hill Show on May 20 and the Millwood two days at Framingham, June 1 and 2. The Chestnut Hill show is a classic horse show, having reached a birthday anniversary in the thirties, while the Millwood is a gay young thing of less than ten summers, but growing up by leaps and bounds.

TWO DAYS UNDER BRILLIANT SUNSHINE at Rossmore, Fitz's Waverley Farm, scene of the Millwood Hunt Horse Show, provide much spectacularity, particularly in the hunts team entries, out for several challenges cups. Myopians come from Hamilton and Groton and Dedham come over, and then there are the privately owned teams entered until the class reaches perhaps twenty entries. In the "pink" or the hunt colors, with men and women riders up, horses and mounts furnish a picture replete with life and color, and as thrilling as the most ardent excitement seeker could hope for.

SWAN SONG OF THE YOUNG, SET'S DANCING SEASON is next Wednesday's "Leap Year" affair at the Ritz-Carlton. The list already compiled runs into several hundred, and with a "do" line instead of a "tag" line indications are that with the popular proportion of "two to one" or, perhaps, "three to one" tickets will be very cleverly turned on the young men as girls do the "cutting in". Some of the erstwhile sterner sex may even be wall flowers, though the hearts of the "dons" will be much too soft to permit such an unhappy outcome to unfold itself.

FREDERICK H. PILLSBURY
The little son of the Samuel H. Pillsburys of Charles River sq. and Milton embraces an early spring opportunity for a ride in the swan boats that ply the placid pond of the Public Garden.

BOSTON'S YOUTHFUL DANCING SET IS FOLLOWING THE metropolitan example set it not long ago. Leap Year comes so very infrequently the females seldom can exercise the prerogatives enjoyed year in and year out by the masculines. But they will do their dance to the Leap Yearish extreme, with "patrons" instead of "patronesses," a feminine schism squad and the aforementioned "do line," when a girl may range the ballroom in search of a pet young man to dance with, and do it with perfect sangfroid. The ballroom, by the way, is the Ritz-Carlton's handsome ballroom, transformed for the evening into a perfect setting for tapers.

IN THE VERY CHARMING LIBRARY OF THE REPERTORY Theater some of those who hear Lord Dunsany speak from his stage, on April 22nd, will be privileged to meet this very charming Englishman personally. That Lord Dunsany came to Boston is quite a feather in The Repertory's cap of course. And therefore, the patroness list is choice. Mrs. I. Tucker Barr, Mrs. N. Penrose Halliwell, Mrs. Walter Thuron, Mrs. Robert Grant, Mrs. Roger Wolcott, Mrs. Ellen Seligson, Mrs. Charles Greely Loring, Mrs. Walter Howe Page, and Mrs. Charles H. Perkins are names sufficient to show its exclusivity.

"They All Love Them"

Dearest Anne! What an exciting week this has been as we awaited news of the brave fibers who were crossing over the sea. Nevermore! I have been thinking about you and was glad to have your modicum of color. I'll tell you just the things you most desired. You mentioned wanting to get a supply of underwear so let's go first there.

Pink and Peach

And purest white! Let's get the delicate cream in the evening attire of pure silk crepe de chine in some dainty French pattern at L. R. Emerson, 35 Tremont St. These are so pretty.

I Know What You'll Say

When we go on our weekly visit to Keeney's, 250 Washington St., I don't look at that rare creation of white. Did you ever see such a long store of effects as there is in Keeney's? I don't want to look at that rare creation of white. Did you ever see such a long store of effects as there is in Keeney's?

At Last I've Found Her!

Our dear Miss Kitty McMahon, better known as just "Kitty," who used to give such ripping natural waves at the Stetson School, I found her in the beautiful hair dressing shop.

"Please Remember Me"

To your own special, in Allen P. Saul, Room 312, New South Street, Boston, when you see him. Priscilla, said one of my friends, "I'll mention the other day."

Here's a Surprise

To you, at the Cambridge-Kennedy Shop, 2nd floor, 100 E. Edge, 40 Boylston St., Shop 9, there will be a hat sale this week of most astounding values.

I've Something Nice

To tell the Women's Club, Miss Long of the High School of the City, Room 225-226, is offering you a special 10% discount on the charge for most interesting course in interior decorating.

In Gay Tones

and in dainty combinations of color so much in vogue this spring come some heavy quality silk hand painted to fashion.

Now Is the Time to take your last year's fur coat up to Parker Bros., Room 202, New South Bldg., 110 Tremont St., and have it made over in the most correct new style.

Priscilla

Stockings

so long in the background of Missy's wardrobe are getting their just share of attention these days and finding their place in the sun.

We Are Invited to visit a white house with green shutters, on the 7th floor of Gray's, The Friendly Store, at 117 Washington St. Miss Priscilla Wood, the direct descendant of the original Priscilla, will be there to show you the latest in white and to teach us the latest in white.

Now Let's Visit

the shop of Theresa A. Ford, at 34 West St., corner of Mason St., where she has a sun porch and breakfast room that will delight your heart. And the best of it is you'll find it all so convenient.

Lepie's Curtain and Drapery Shop at 31 Channing St. has wonderful ideas this week in curtains. They are selling a seven-dollar drapery with silk-trimmed edges in rose, gray and blue.

QUEEN MARY'S NEPHEW DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

Paris, April 15 (AP)—Vincent Fremont, 21-year-old nephew of Queen Mary of England, died here from injuries received in a motor car accident. The young prince, heir of the Earl of Albion, governor of the Channel Islands, was killed in a crash landing of his biplane. The crash occurred on the English coast near the town of Folkestone. The prince was flying over the sea when his plane lost control and crashed into the water. He was the only survivor of the crash.

BREMEN FLIERS TELL OF FIGHTING SNOW AND FOG IN OCEAN HOP

COMPASS FAILED IN CRISIS

Flying conditions changed and the Bremen was forced to fly very low. At that time the airman was confident of success and believed the coast of Newfoundland was at hand. As the state of the weather, the compass "began to fail," according to the message, and the fog was replaced by snow and hail.

Relief Ship Resumes Way Toward Greenly Island

OTTAWA, April 16 (AP).—The government, by breaking Montreal bound for the rescue of the marooned transatlantic monoplane Bremen, was reported this afternoon to have broken away from the ice that had blocked its progress and to be within 20 miles of Greenly Island.

A message received by government telegraph service this afternoon indicated that the Bremen had intended to take the Bremen to Quebec on the Montreal and not fly it out, as it had earlier been planned.

Bay State A. O. H. Sends Invitation to Irish Flier

Worcester, April 16 (AP).—The Ancient Order of Hibernians, meeting in state convention here, sent a telegram to New York City, directed to Col. James Fitzmaurice, captain of the transatlantic plane Bremen, inviting him to Massachusetts and extending greetings.

The message, signed by State President John J. O'Connor of Holyoke, reads: "The Ancient Order of Hibernians of Massachusetts extends its most sincere congratulations and good wishes to you and your comrades. Come to Massachusetts for a 'red red millie' salute for one hundred thousand welcomes."

TRAVELED ALONE

Miss Marion L. Starkey, of Saugus, who has visited points near Greenly Island, where the Bremen landed, thinks mirages may have misled the crew.

Erin and Germany Will "Listen In" as N. Y. Greets Fliers

New York, April 16 (AP).—The National Broadcasting Company wants to bring the folks at home in Germany and Ireland in on New York's reception in the crew of the transatlantic monoplane Bremen.

Officials of the company today announced arrangements are under way to have the reception transmitted to Europe on the short wave apparatus of Station WGV at Schenectady, and broadcast by European stations.

At least 40 stations, constituting one of the largest hook-ups ever arranged, will broadcast the reception in this country.

Will cause snow and sleet to melt and will prevent rain from freezing. Whittaker said he had been working on this preparation for three months and that his success will eliminate the greatest danger in transatlantic and cold weather flying. He said he was going to demonstrate his discovery to command Richard E. Byrd, who is preparing for his flight over the South Pole.

Plane Ski Runners Are Sent to Stranded Fliers

Quebec, April 16 (AP).—A set of airplane ski runners, capable of being fitted to the transatlantic monoplane Bremen, marooned on Greenly Island, have been sent by train to Murray Bay, Que., far forwarding to the stranded fliers.

The snow runners were sent in the belief that the monoplane fliers, which was damaged in landing on the island after its ocean crossing, would be unable to take off from the ice with her present running gear of land wheels.

Mrs. Fitzmaurice to Join Husband in N. Y.

Dublin, April 15 (UPI).—Mrs. Fitzmaurice, wife of the Irish commandant, who acted as co-pilot on the Bremen's famous westward flight across the Atlantic today announced she would leave soon to join her husband in New York.

She said she would probably go over to America in the company of Mrs. Kohl, wife of the Bremen's other pilot.

Fine Cambridge Lawyer

Att'y John L. G. Glynn of Milton st., Cambridge, former mayor and candidate in that city, in Cambridge district court today, pleaded guilty to operating an automobile without a license and was fined $15.

SAYS LABRADOR MIRAGES MIGHT FOOL FLIERS

Strange mirages, peculiar to the Straits of Belle Isle, may have been responsible for the landing of the German plane Bremen on Greenly Island, in the opinion of Miss Marion L. Starkey, Boston University graduate who visited that country alone.

The young woman, the only daughter of A. L. Starkey, publisher of the Saugus Herald, and Mrs. Starkey, spent three months in Labrador, penetrating as far north as Herby, most northern of the Moravian settlements which extend beyond the Grenfell missions.

"I was told about the mirages in Hopedale," said Miss Starkey, where they believe them to have been the cause of the wreck of the Canadian destroyer Galveston near Point Amour, where news of the fliers' landing was sent from the radio station.

"The fogs are terrible in that country. It was so foggy at the time I went through the Straits of Belle Isle in the summer of 1922 that I could make no photographs. The fog, combined with a lack of light houses, make navigation so dangerous that the mail boats do not run at night except at full moon.

"How an airplane could land safely anywhere in that region, especially along the coast, which is entirely wild and rocky, is a mystery to me. There are no beaches, except in rare instances. There is a strip of beach on the Labrador side, not many miles from where the fliers are reported to have come down.

"If the winds and fog had forced them still farther north out of their course, they might have landed inland, in some isolated district out of reach of the missionaries and Indian and Eskimo folk. In that case it would take weeks, even months, at this season of the year, for the news to travel to a settlement and thence to a radio station. It is what may have happened to the fliers who landed there."

"I had the thrill of being caught in an icebergs in the Gulf, in the Fourth of July, off Cape Hatteras. The little steamer Midge was forced to run back because of the ice, so I stopped off at Indian Harbor, the main harbor of Grenfell station, and waited 15 days for the boat to return. At this time the jam was broken up sufficiently so that the next try was successful and in two days we reached Hopedale."

Following her graduation from the College of Liberal Arts in 1922, Miss Starkey taught school for a year, edited her father's weekly paper for more than three years, spent three months among the Indians in Southern Colorado in 1922, and three months in Labrador in 1925. Last year she made a tour of five European countries.

$40,000 FIRE SWEEPS STORES IN MONSON

Monson, April 16 (AP).—Damage of $40,000 resulted from the burning of a large wooden business block owned by Bert T. Anderson and occupied by local concerns. Drug and jewelry stores, insurance office and an electrical concern, were heavily destroyed. The fire had gained great headway from an unknown source when discovered. Hard work by the firemen confined the blaze to the one building. The postoffice was badly blistered.

New Outfit in Kitchen

NEXT time you pay a visit to the Martha Lee Kitchen—and we hope that it will be soon—I'm sure you'll be interested in seeing our new and complete aluminum outfit.

Just to look at this shining array of beautiful and practical utensils is to feel certain urges to cook. And certainly everything bakes more evenly and seems to taste better when prepared in these highly polished, easy-to-clean utensils.

Until you've baked cake in a tubed cake pan with feet, I doubt if you've known perfection in cake baking. The cake is turned upside down to cool, standing on its feet and the action of gravity keeps the cake in perfect condition. The air-cells lengthen as they cool, making a lighter cake.

Our aluminum has double lips making it easy to pour from either side of the pans, and it is rare that anything burns in them. Even if such a calamity should occur, a few minutes soaking makes it possible to restore the original beauty of the pan with little trouble.

If you use the kind of bread pans you'll find in your kitchen, you'll never have to break your finger nails trying to get out the tiny particles of bread that lodge in the corners of ordinary pans. These aluminum bread pans have rounded corners, which makes cleaning easy and because the aluminum heats so quickly the bread bakes evenly throughout.

If you send the lessons in the Martha Lee Kitchen you know what light, fluffy, delicious muffins, corn, popovers and corn cakes can be made in our aluminum muffin pans. We think you'll envy us our light, shining aluminum bowl, our aluminum cooler (which also will hold six pint preserve jars), our smooth, shining frying pans with their wooden handles, and our strainers that perch safely on the side of sauce pans.

We really feel that we have a remarkable complete aluminum outfit and will be pleased and proud to show it to you.

Fig Newton Pudding Flavored with Nutmeg

Cut some of the fig newtons into thin strips, seasoning them slightly to soften and using a sharp knife. Arrange them around the edge of sherbet glasses. Crumble the remainder until fine, then heat, but in a cereal cooker, adding 2 tbs. of orange juice, or syrup of candied ginger. Beat stiff the whites of 2 eggs with a tbs. of powdered sugar and a tbs. of lemon juice and stir into the cookie crumbs. Fill the pudding into the glasses and top each with a spoonful of hard sauce flavored with nutmeg. A low dipped nut is a great addition.

Tomato Aspic Rule Is Easy to Follow

Use 3 tbs. gelatin, 1 c. cold water, 2 c. tomatoes, which have been strained, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. powdered sugar, dash of cayenne pepper. Soak the gelatin in cold water for 15 minutes. Season tomatoes with salt, sugar and cayenne pepper and bring to boiling point. Add the soaked gelatin and stir until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Pour into small cups for individual serving and chill. When aspic is thoroughly set, run a knife around the inside of the molds to loosen. Place on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing. Amount—3 servings.

Orange in Ration

ORANGE juice has become a daily ration of the American family in which there are children. It is no longer a luxury or a desert. It is in fact a standard medical prescription for babies and children up to old age.

The reason for this prescribed presence of oranges in the dietary of children is because it is the concentrated vitamin C, which guards against rickets and scurvy and the forms of malnutrition which afflict infant humanity when given an improper diet.

The strained orange juice in the form in which the little folks can have their oranges, while the adults can have them on the "half shell, to scoop out the pulp, or sliced, as desired. All restaurants now offer orange juice as part of its regular menu.

No more beneficial draught can be taken to start off the day right and tone the digestive organs for the day's work. The juice is diluted for babies, but for the grownups at least two good-sized and juicy oranges are necessary to furnish the morning glass of fruit juice.

Sweet Whipped Cream Used on This Pudding

Separate four eggs. Beat the yolks well and add to them 6 tbs. of sugar and the juice and grated rind of a large lemon and 2 tbs. of hot water. Stirmer gently until the mixture thickens. Remove from the fire and stir in the whites of four eggs beaten stiff and sweetened with 2 tbs. of sugar. Arrange a dozen lady fingers or finger-shaped slices of sponge cake, in a glass dish. Pour the custard over and set away to chill thoroughly. If you prefer, a meringue can be made from two egg whites, 2 tbs. of powdered sugar and lemon juice, dropped by spoonful over the custard and browned in a slow oven. Or sweetened whipped cream, when flavored, can be used to top this pudding.

Recipes By A Chef

PLAN to get the washing and ironing out of the way early this week so you can be at the Martha Lee Kitchen Wednesday, April 18, when Mr. Carlo Di Scialo, chef of the popular Shepard's Colonial Restaurant, will give a cooking lesson and demonstration at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Di Scialo, a native of Naples, has been connected with the B. A. A. Hotel Westminster and other prominent hotels and country clubs. He became chef of the Colonial Restaurant at its opening thirteen years ago. This restaurant is well known for its business and shopper luncheon, served from 11 to 2, and for tea dinner dances from 5 to 8. The music in the Colonial is furnished by Dick Eisenberg and his Symphonians.

Mr. Di Scialo will make Grandine Tenderloin, a mixed salad, baked oysters, Stuffed style, and assorted canapés.

Don't fail to be on hand in the Martha Lee Kitchen next Wednesday, April 18, at 2:30 p. m., to take advantage of what is sure to be an interesting and as extremely valuable lesson.

SODA CRACKERS DESERVE A PLACE IN EVERY PANTRY—MARTHA LEE

THESE DELICIOUS, NOURISHING CRACKERS CAN BE HALVED WITHOUT GRUMBLING.

Many Uses For Them

THERE'S a crispy cracker that has recently made its bow in the food world and has already made a place for itself in every pantry. It belongs to the saltine family, and a package in the pantry makes preparation for most of the emergencies the housewife is faced to.

Making their first appearance with the soup course, these crispy crackers are covered with a grating of cheese and paprika and browned in a hot oven, are the ideal accompaniment for a green salad.

The hurried housewife, who grudging the time at noon to sit down to a solitary meal, will find fresh energy after a few of these crackers spread with her favorite sandwich spread and a cup of fragrant tea. Or, if the meal is a bit more elaborate, try your sacred codfish in a rich cream sauce, poured over these crackers instead of toast. Yum, yum!

They have their place in the school lunch box, too, combined with peanut butter, or a relish spread, and some paste or cheese, and at night they have their rightful place under the post-bridge rabbit or in Dad's golf-bag bowl of milk.

And by the way, that's a pretty sane and sensible habit. Most of us sleep better after a modest offering to the inner man or woman, and what more satisfying than these crisp, delicious crackers floated in milk?

Remember way back when you bought soda crackers at the corner grocery and Friend Grouse fished out the required amount from an open barrel, easy of access for dirt and pinning fingers? Crackers that often presented dirty faces and hard, flinty hearts. No wonder that many of us grew up with a complex against crackers.

Now the picture has changed! Today soda crackers dwell in cheery red packages, swelling side by side on grocery shelves. Within the four protective wrappers of the package is row on row of dainty crackers, tenderly crinkled and dimpled with health. Every cracker is a tiny storehouse of health calories and delicious taste.

These crackers, and they cost the whole of a round nickel a box, are the counterparts of my Emergency Shell—and my standby of a hum-drum of more water are put over a slow flame to cook in their own juice. There is a noticeable improvement in the flavor of foods so cooked, especially in potatoes.

What so good for the children's between-times bite with a glass of milk, or for the mother in the kitchen, sandwiched round a slice of cheese, peanut butter or pale de food (see page 10)?

Fanned crackers take on improved flavor, served, or these toasted crackers and we're all familiar with them as a healthy and delicious dish or Welsh Rarebit.

By the way, have you ever tried the lettuce rabbit salad cold, put between two soda crackers and then heated in the oven until piping hot and served with sour pickles? Yum, yum!

If a neighbor drops in unexpectedly in the afternoon and the larder looks scant, needn't despair if you've a box of these crackers on your shelves and a jar of some kind of preserve or marmalade in the office. Spread the crackers with the marmalade, top with a marmalade or a spoonful of marmalade, low cream and toast a slice or two in a hot oven.

Of course, I needn't harp on the virtues of soda crackers in enlivened oysters, as a coating for croquettes, topping for all grain dishes or as a soup accompaniment.

No Cooking Lesson Held on Thursday

As Thursday, April 19 is a holiday, the regular cooking lesson in the Martha Lee Kitchen will be omitted on that date. We will double up our lesson on Monday including in it that ever-popular chop suey, as well as many other new and interesting dishes especially suited for Sunday night supper.

Try This Rule for Baked Creamed Potatoes

Boil four good sized potatoes in their jackets. Let cool and chop fine. You'll need three cups. To these add ½ of a cup of heavy cream and seasoning to taste. Pack into skins or brown a surface pop-over cups and bake in a very hot oven for half an hour. This will give a golden brown crust with the creamy potato inside.

Water In Cookery

"A COOK who pours down the drain the water in which she has boiled vegetables is wasting most of the precious mineral salt and vitamins which makes the food valuable from a health point of view," declared Mr. J. F. Hansen of the Aluminum Cooking Utensil Company in a lecture on wasteful cookery, given in the Martha Lee Kitchen.

"It is as if one were to pour fresh coffee down the sink and save the grounds, for the bulky matter which remains is little more than dregs. It is the realization of this fact has given rise to waterless cooking, in which the food is simply washed and without the addition of more water are put over a slow flame to cook in their own juice. There is a noticeable improvement in the flavor of foods so cooked, especially in potatoes."

Meals' Schedule For One Day

SUGGESTED menu using best buys in the market: BREAKFAST: Prunes, Popovers, Milk or Coffee. LUNCHEON OR SUPPER: Shredded Eggs, Tuna-fish Salad with Dressing, Graham Flakes, Apple Pie.

DINNER: Tomato Bisque, Parsnips, Pickled Beets, Spanish Cream.

SHRIMP EGGS: BUTTER and cover the bottom dish with fine crumbs. Break each egg into a saucer and carefully add to the mixture. Cover with seasoned, buttered crumbs, and bake in a moderately hot oven until the white is cooked and the crumbs browned.

Here's New Recipe

HERE I am preaching about pineapple again, but I'm wondering if you have tried dipping pineapple slices in melted butter, dusting them with sugar and browning them under the broiler flame? Then serve them with lamb chops. You'll make a princely offering out of this every-day dish.

Pork sausage, hamburger steak, and many other dishes can be converted into real specialties by simply adding a slice or two of this luscious fruit sautéed first. Pineapple is delicious, too, with omelets, soufflés, pork spare ribs, and with such vegetables as sweet potatoes. Spring is a good time to wash the stove and fanned with hot water and soap.

Party Sandwiches Must Always Be Novel

Party sandwiches must be novel as well as delicious. Baked celery and pimiento sandwiches are a new note in the smart, polished sandwich. Cut crusts off a loaf of very fresh bread and cut in thin slices. Cover with a wet cloth for at least an hour. Butter. Mix very finely dried celery with mayonnaise to moisten and season to taste with salt and paprika.

Spread on bread. Place a long piece of crustal pimiento across the center of the slice, then roll tightly together, with a wet pimiento above line at each end, and tie with narrow satin ribbon to harmonize with your party color scheme.

Here's a Rule for Emergency Frosting

Put 1 egg white, ½ cupful sugar and 3 cups cold water in the upper part of a double boiler and set over rapidly boiling water. Beat constantly with a Dover beater for 7 minutes. Remove, add ½ tsp. vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread.

Save steps from sink to tub—with 2 Chipso boxes

If you keep one Chipso box by the kitchen sink and another by the washtub or washing machine, Chipso's instant suds are always within easy and instant reach. You have this quick-working helper always at your elbow!

This plan saves bother. It saves your steps. And it saves minutes, too! Chipso's white flakes come in two blue-and-orange boxes. The 10½ box is a good accompaniment package if you haven't tried Chipso before. Once you know Chipso, the 25½ size is more practical. It is big enough to dip a cup into whenever you want fluffy, bounteous suds that will quickly and safely loosen the dirt in your clothes. The same size is just as handy at sifting out the few flakes that make a painful of grease-cutting suds for your dishes.

PROCTER & GAMBLE

Dishes in 1/3 less time

Twinkling glass and china—½ quicker this way: A few Chipso flakes and hot water make a dishpanful of quick-working suds instantly! If you leave the dishes in Chipso suds for a minute or two, they will be practically ready to rinse without rubbing! Let Chipso suds soak the grease off the utensils, too! Besides being ½ quicker, this soaking method saves your hands by keeping them out of dishwater.

Soaks clothes clean

Five draggleless steps in a Chipso washday: 1st—Hot water on Chipso gives instant suds. 2nd—20-minute soaking loosens the dirt. 3rd—Squeezing the clothes makes the dirt foam out! 4th—Bad spots and soiled edges may need light hand-rubbing. 5th—Rinse and wring. And such white, sweet clothes, as you'll have—to hang out early in the morning!

The most amazing success in the history of household soap

Economy in Milk

NO truly economical housewife cuts down on her milk supply as a measure of economy. She may cut down on meats or sweets, but she knows that the balanced diet demands milk.

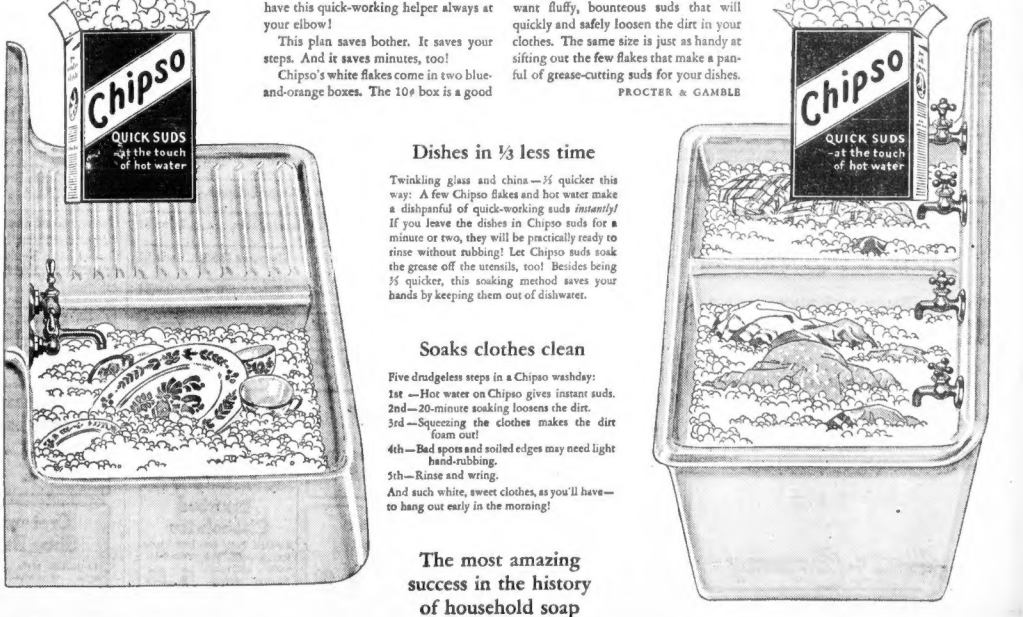

However, the thrifty housewife may well give a thought to evaporated milk as a penny saver. The diluted evaporated milk is not only rich enough to serve as cream, but may be whipped thickly.

Scald the contents of one can of evaporated milk in a double boiler for five minutes. Cool and chill on ice. Stir the milk all the time. It is scalding to prevent a crust forming. When thoroughly cooled whip as you would fresh cream.

FRANCO-BRITISH OPIUM CHARGES STIR GENEVA

Geneva, Switzerland, April 14 (AP)—A sensation was caused in the Opium Commission of the League of Nations today when the British delegate charged that French importation of opium from the east coast of Africa had increased during the last few years. The French representative answered that he was unable at the moment to produce the figures for the importation of opium and cocaine but that he would do so later even if the Geneva Opium Convention were not ratified.

Signor Cavonni of Italy, called another matter into play when he declared that while British statistics showed that great Britain shipped only 25 tons of opium annually to the United States for the last five years, American figures showed that 47 tons actually were received from Great Britain.

The British delegate said that he was unable to explain the discrepancy unless it was due to the fact that some British firms are getting opium from countries outside of Britain. During today's meeting Japan announced that she was unable to give the amount of morphine manufactured in Formosa.

RAY ATHERTON WIVES HUNNEWELL

The London engagement of Ray Atherton, counselor of the American embassy and former Brookline man, to Miss Maude Hunnewell, daughter of the late Hollis Hunnewell, and Mrs. John B. Tooker of Boston was announced today.

Though both were born in Hubbardston, the romance that culminated in the engagement did not materialize until they met at London functions, according to John B. Lawrence, Hubbardston man and brother-in-law of Mr. Atherton. Mrs. Lawrence, sister of Mr. Atherton, was in London for the announcement.

Atherton studied architecture at Paris and later became attached to the diplomatic corps, serving in the United States and finally at London. His mother, Mrs. George B. Atherton, maintains her home in Marlboro at Back Bay.

Miss Hunnewell had made her home in England for several years, having gone there from Wellesley. No definite date has been set for the wedding other than it will take place early in May.

Honor Scientist Who Measures Molecule

St. Louis, Mo., April 16 (SWS)—William Draper Harkins, professor of physical chemistry in the University of Chicago, has won the 1923 award of the Willard Gibbs gold medal, a major honor in American chemistry. It was announced today by the American Chemical Society which opened its thirty-fifth meeting here.

This medal is given annually by the Chicago section of the society to a chemist whose work has resulted in a worldwide recognition. Harkins was chosen by a jury of American scientists. He was credited with several outstanding ing original researches. One, in the field of surface tension and surface films, is regarded of international importance in its application and oil flotation. Prof. Harkins has measured the size of molecules by spreading oil on water. He has won international recognition for his atomic research.

Dr. William Charles White of the United States public health service, Washington, declared the next step in social evolution is group activity shaped in a vast research enterprise culminating in a single achievement uniting the waters of science in the world on disease and economic life.

GIRL SCOUTS IN 1443 GAIN

Increase in membership of 1443 during the year in the Girl Scouts of the Eastern Massachusetts Division was reported today at the division's annual meeting at Hotel Bellevue.

With this increase the membership in this division reached a total of 2218, constituting 42 per cent of all the Girl Scouts in the State.

TINKHAM HITS LEAGUE MOVE

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Withdrawal of the consent of the United States to join the League of Nations Court is called for in a resolution Representative George Holden Tinkham (Rep.) of Massachusetts announced he would file in Congress.

Charges that "disloyal internationalists" through duplicity and fraud were responsible for the Senate's action in voting adherence to the League Court with reservations were made by Tinkham.

Changes were announced, however, materially altering the boundary lines of the eastern division. The division was reorganized into two divisions, one covering the northern and western sections, and the other covering the southern and eastern sections.

Miss Fred H. Eaton of Andover was elected commissioner, with Mrs. Fred M. Johnson of Springfield, retiring commissioner, as deputy. Mrs. W. E. Marvel of Fall River, second deputy, Mrs. Paul Patton, Chelsea, third deputy, Mrs. Henry S. Davis, Boston, fourth deputy, Mrs. Walter Seaver, Worcester, fifth deputy, Mrs. Frank Hill and Mrs. Philip Mayhew, Plymouth, executive board members.

The American people, faithful to their priceless inheritance of national independence and freedom from entangling foreign political alliances, desistively deflected the proposal in two elections," Tinkham said.

$235,000 PEARL NECKLACE IS RECOVERED IN PARIS

Paris, April 16 (AP)—A search that extended to two continents was ended and a pearl necklace, valued at $235,000, today was back in the hands of its owner, whose identity was not revealed.

A postal employee was arrested recently and charged with the theft. He pointed out the place where the jewelry was hidden, and French police returned the necklace.

POLICE HUNT THIRD YOUTH IN MURDER OF TROOPER

Worcester, April 16 (AP)—Continuing a "red" investigation into the murder of State Trooper Irving G. Nelson at Pomfret, Ct., on April 6, officials of the Connecticut State patrol, working independently of the Worcester and Springfield police, are coming to Worcester this week.

It is their belief that someone in Worcester there is a youth who can reveal the true of revolver and a wrist bandage who also Nelson. Springfield police are also coming this week to find the third member of the "fox box band," his. Police arrested Roland G. Lohse and Albert G. Raymond of Worcester last week and after he identified as the "fox box band" they were connected by the circumstantial evidence with the murder of Trooper Nelson.

Correct Manners Told by Mrs. Beekman

By MRS. CORNELIUS BECKMAN

Good manners are the foundation of a successful life. They help us build strong relationships and create a positive environment. Mrs. Beekman shares her wisdom and experience on the importance of good manners. From the way we speak to the way we behave, every detail matters. Let's learn from her and strive to be the best we can be.

It's not just about the way we look, but the way we act. Good manners are a reflection of our character and our values. They show that we care about others and that we are respectful. In a world where everyone is so busy, it's easy to forget the importance of good manners. But Mrs. Beekman reminds us that they are what truly make a difference.

So, let's take a page from Mrs. Beekman's book and practice good manners every day. It's a simple thing to do, but it can make a big difference in the way we live and the way we are perceived. Let's be the example that others can follow.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN: I have been thinking about your advice on good manners. It's so true, and it's so important. I'm going to try to be a better person, and I'm going to start with the basics. Thank you for sharing your wisdom with us.

Beatrice Fairfax Advises the Lover

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Love is a beautiful thing, but it can also be a source of heartache. Beatrice Fairfax offers advice to lovers who are struggling with their relationships. She shares her insights and experiences, helping them to see the situation from a different perspective. Love is worth the effort, and with the right advice, it can be a rewarding experience.

Don't let your love turn into a battle. Communication is key. Talk to each other, listen to each other, and try to understand each other's feelings. Love is a journey, and it's not always easy. But if you stick together and work through the challenges, you can build a strong and lasting relationship.

DEAR BEATRICE: I'm having a hard time with my love. We've been together for a long time, but lately, things have been different. I don't know what's going on, and I don't know how to fix it. Can you help me?

Of course I can. Love is a complex thing, and it's normal to have problems. But don't worry. We'll work through this together. Remember, love is worth the effort. Keep trying, and you'll find a way to make it work.

Walk in Rain to Aid Beauty

By MARIA JERITZA

There's something about the rain that makes it so beautiful. It's a natural beauty that we can all appreciate. Maria Jeritza shares her thoughts on the beauty of rain and how it can help us feel better about ourselves. Rain is a reminder that beauty is all around us, and it's just a matter of looking for it.

So, the next time it rains, don't stay inside. Go outside and feel the rain. It's a simple thing to do, but it can make a big difference in the way you feel. Rain is a beautiful thing, and it's worth taking a moment to enjoy it.

DEAR MARIA: I love the rain. It's so soothing and refreshing. I wish I could walk in the rain every day. It's so beautiful.

Yes, the rain is beautiful. But it's also a reminder that beauty is all around us. We just need to take the time to notice it. So, the next time it rains, go outside and enjoy it. You'll be glad you did.
